DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

Claim 20 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form.

Claim 20 depends on claim 19, but claim 19 had been canceled.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1-2, 4-5 and 17-18 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant Admitted Prior Art (Figs. 1-2) in view of Yoshitake (U.S. Pat. 6043704).
- Regarding claims 1 and 17, Applicant Admitted Prior Art disclose an integrated circuit (Figs. 1 and 2) comprising:
 - a first port 10-13 for outputting a signal;
 - a second port 14, 15, 16 and 17 for receiving the signal;
- a common area 35 comprising an alignment link 30, 31, 32 and 33 for electrically connecting the first port with the second port;

Art Unit: 2814

the second port is directly and electrically connected to the alignment link from a second area without the use of linking area that includes bridging traces for linking misaligned ports with the second port and the common area;

the alignment link comprises a signal buffer for buffering a signal traveling along the alignment link between the first port and the second port and the alignment link is arranged within the common area.

However, Applicant Admitted Prior Art (Figs. 1 and 2) fail to disclose the first port is directly and electrically connected to the alignment link from a first area without the use of a first linking area that includes bridging traces for linking mis-aligned ports with the first port and the common area.

Yoshitake discloses a clock distribution circuit for a semiconductor integrated circuit comprising:

an input driver 11 for outputting a signal; a buffer 12 for receiving an output of the driver 11 (fig. 1, column 7, lines 10-20), wherein the driver 11 extends directly from the first area into the buffer 12; and wherein the driver 11 is directly and electrically connected to the alignment link from a first area without the use of a first linking area that includes bridging traces for linking mis-aligned ports with the first port and the common area to provide a clock distribution circuit and can realize reduction in skew. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the Applicant Admitted Prior Art (Figs. 1 and 2) to provide the driver 11 extends directly from the first area into the buffer 12, as shown by Yoshitake to make a direct contact and avoid the links.

Art Unit: 2814

 Regarding claim 2, Applicants' prior art Figure 2 discloses the alignment link comprises a wiring trace.

 Regarding claims 4 and 5, Applicants' prior art Figure 1 discloses the first port and second port are located in a first and second area respectively of integrated circuit real estate.

- Regarding claim 18, Applicants' prior Fig. 2 discloses the alignment means comprises a wiring trace and signal buffering circuitry and occupy a common area 35 of integrated circuit real estate.
- Regarding claim 20, Applicants' prior art Fig. 2 discloses the first port and second port are located at a substantial distance to each other relative to overall integrated circuit estate.
- 3. Claims 6-10 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant Admitted Prior Art (Figs. 1-2) in view of Yoshitake (U.S. Pat. 6043704) and further in view of Mizuno et al. (U.S. Pat. 6140686).
- Regarding claims 6-7 and 21, Applicant Admitted Prior Art disclose an integrated circuit (Figs. 1 and 2) comprising:

a first port 10-13 located in a first area of integrated circuit real estate, for outputting a signal;

a second port 14, 15, 16 and 17 located in a second area of integrated circuit real estate, for receiving the signal;

a common area 35 comprising an alignment link 30, 31, 32 and 33 for electrically connecting the first port with the second port;

the second port is directly and electrically connected to the alignment link from a second area without the use of a second linking area that includes bridging traces for linking mis-aligned ports with the second port and the common area;

the alignment link comprises a signal buffer for buffering a signal traveling along the alignment link between the first port and the second port.

However, Applicant Admitted Prior Art (Figs. 1 and 2) fail to disclose the first port is directly and electrically connected to the alignment link from a first area without the use of a first linking area that includes bridging traces for linking mis-aligned ports with the first port and the common area.

Yoshitake discloses a clock distribution circuit for a semiconductor integrated circuit comprising:

an input driver 11 located in a first area of integrated circuit real state, for outputting a signal; a buffer 12 (fig. 1, column 7, lines 10-20), wherein the driver 11 extends directly from the first area into the buffer 12; and wherein the driver 11 is directly and electrically connected to the alignment link from a first area without the use of a first linking area that includes bridging traces for linking mis-aligned ports with the first port and the common area to provide a clock distribution circuit and can realize reduction in skew. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the Applicant Admitted Prior Art (Figs. 1 and 2) to provide the driver 11 extends directly from the first area into the buffer 12, as shown by Yoshitake to make a direct contact and avoid the links.

Applicants' prior art (figs. 1-2) and Yoshitake fail to disclose the integrated circuit real estate comprises multi-levels.

Mizuno et al. disclose the integrated circuit (Figs. 1, 21 and abstract) comprises multi-levels wherein the multi-levels comprise a semiconductor level and a wiring level, the semiconductor level forms a buffer and control circuit so that the frequency of the oscillation output corresponds to the frequency of the clock signal (abstract) and the wiring levels 110,111, 112, 113 (column 2, lines 55-61) provide the power supply voltage to the circuit block 300 (Fig. 1). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the ICs of Applicants' prior art (figs. 1 and 2) and Yoshitake such that the integrated circuits real estate comprise multi-levels to maintain the frequency of the signal from the clock to the oscillation and provide the power supply voltage to the circuit block shown by Mizuno et al.

- Regarding claim 8, Mizuno et al. disclose the semiconductor level comprises the signal buffer (abstract).
- Regarding claim 9, the limitation that the wire-tracing level comprises the first port and second port is a design choice.
- Regarding claim 10, Mizuno et al. disclose the wiring level comprises a plurality of wiring levels 110, 111, 112 and 113 (Figs. 1 and 21, column 2, lines 55-61).
